Searching:

Once you have accessed JSTOR, you will be able to conduct a Basic or Advanced search. Note that search terms are not case-sensitive.

The Basic Search form is located on the main JSTOR page and allows for full-text searching of key words or phrases, authors or titles. Such search results tend to be broad, searching all searchable content. To help limit results, you may enclose your terms within quotation marks.

The Advanced Search offers more specific and refined searching, allowing you to search for full-text, author, item title, abstract, and captions, as well as setting other limits, including access type, item type, date range, discipline, and more. Note, however, that our subscription covers articles from journals and open access e-books.

A screenshot of the JSTOR Advanced Search interface. At the top, there are navigation links: "JSTOR HOME", "SEARCH", "BROWSE", and "MYJSTOR". The main heading is "Advanced Search" with links to "View tutorial" and "Search Help". There are two search input fields, one with an "AND" dropdown and another with an "Add Field +" button. A dropdown menu is open, showing options: "Full-Text", "Author", "Item Title", "Abstract", and "Caption". Below the search fields is a "SELECT AN ACCESS TYPE" dropdown set to "Read and download" and a "Search" button. The "NARROW BY:" section includes "ITEM TYPE" (Articles, Books, Pamphlets, Reviews, Miscellaneous), "DATE RANGE" (From: yyyy or yyyy/mm or yyyy/mm/dd, To: yyyy or yyyy/mm or yyyy/mm/dd), and "LANGUAGE" (All Languages). There are also input fields for "PUBLICATION TITLE" and "ISBN". At the bottom, there is a "JOURNAL FILTER" section with "NARROW BY DISCIPLINE AND/OR JOURNAL:" and a note to "Expand the disciplines below to see associated journals". Under "Return results for:", there is a link to "African American Studies (25 titles)".

Refining a Search:

A sample basic search for American Civil War, no quotation marks, retrieved a list of over 269,000 articles while enclosing the phrase in quotation marks finds around 10,500 results.

A search may be further refined using the limiters to filter results. Users may use more specific terms and choose to limit the search to the current results by checking "Search within results". Note that selecting "Modify Search" will return you to the search home page. Other limiting options, located to the left of your results, include: Content Type (journals or books); Publication date; Subject; and Access Level ("Read and download" is recommended to locate and access full-text articles included in our subscription as well as open access e-books). Choosing other options may show items that may not be available under our subscription. Located above the list of results are the "Sort By," "Show Snippets," and "Export Citations" options. You may also change "Sort By" from Relevance (default) to Newest or Oldest. Selecting "Show Snippets" will display an abstract from the item. Users may also export selected citations to various citation management applications (RefWorks, EndNote, etc.).

Working with Results:

Results List:

Results are listed 25 records to a page. Scroll to the bottom of the page to go to the next page of results. Note that the Sort By, Show Snippets, and Export buttons stay visible as you scroll down the page. Export allows you to select articles using the check box to export citations to third party citation applications, such as RefWorks, or to a text file.

Sort By | Show Snippets | Export Selected Citations

Your search terms are highlighted where they appear in the abstract. Each record includes a check box which selects citations for export as noted above, the article title, author(s), journal title, volume, issue, date, page numbers, and an excerpt of the article's abstract (summary). Each record also includes buttons to download the PDF, add the article to a list (this requires creation of an optional free MyJSTOR account), and get citations in three styles, MLA, APA, and Chicago.

The screenshot shows a JSTOR search results page for the query "american civil war". At the top, it displays "10,517 Search Results" and a search bar containing the query. Below the search bar are options to "Modify Search" and "Search Help". A "Search within results" checkbox is present. The "Filter Results" section includes an "Update Results" button, a "Sort By" dropdown menu set to "Relevance", a "Show Snippets" checkbox, and an "Export Selected Citations" dropdown menu. The "Content Type" section lists "Journals (10,471)" and "Books (46)". The "Publication Date" section has fields for "From" and "To" dates. The "Subject" section lists various categories such as "African American Studies (223)", "African Studies (106)", "American Indian Studies (19)", "American Studies (4,160)", "Anthropology (104)", "Archaeology (45)", and "Architecture & Architectural History (48)". The main results area shows three articles:

- Wallpaper Newspapers of the American Civil War by Susan Campion, Journal of the American Institute for Conservation, Vol. 34, No. 2 (Summer, 1995), pp. 129-140. The abstract discusses the conservation of three newspapers printed on wallpaper during the American Civil War.
- New Zealand and the American Civil War by Daniel B. Thorp, Pacific Historical Review, Vol. 80, No. 1 (February 2011), pp. 97-130. The abstract mentions a reconsideration of the British reaction to the American Civil War.
- Cowards and Heroes: Group Loyalty in the American Civil War by Dora L. Costa and Matthew E. Kahn, The Quarterly Journal of Economics, Vol. 118, No. 2 (May, 2003), pp. 519-548. The abstract discusses group loyalty in the American Civil War.

Each article entry includes a "Download PDF" button, an "Add To My Lists" button, and a "Cite This Item" button. At the bottom of the page, there is a navigation link: "« Previous Page 1 of 421 Next »".

Detailed Record:

Clicking on the title of an article in the list will open the detailed record for that article. From here, you may search for other terms either in this issue, in this journal, or in all content in JSTOR. In addition to the Download, Add to Lists, and Cite buttons, you may also view information about the journal. Where available, use the "Back to Search Results" link; otherwise use the browser back button to get back to your search results.

WALLPAPER NEWSPAPERS OF THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR

SUSAN CAMPION

ABSTRACT—The conservation of three newspapers printed on wallpaper during the American Civil War is presented, together with relevant research to determine the newspapers' relative merits as design art or archives as they pertained to treatment choices and priorities. The author explains the reasons for using wallpaper as newsprint during the Civil War. Alternative uses for wallpaper, or "paper hangings" the wallpaper is machine-made continuous paper of rag and straw with machine printing, both relatively new processes in the 1860s in wallpaper manufacture. The printed patterns reflect the design influences and patterns current in the mid-19th-century South. Given the environmental conditions in the southern states, it is unusual to have wallpaper survive from this

Below the article details is the article preview, page thumbnails, and article references. You may view the entire article in the preview by clicking the forward and back arrows. Note that the Previous and Next Item links above the preview refer to articles in the same issue of the journal and not items in your original result list. Note that these articles may not be relevant to your topic. You may also go to the pages where your search terms occur by clicking View Results.

The screenshot shows a web interface for an article preview. At the top, there are three tabs: "Article" (selected), "Thumbnails", and "References". To the right of these tabs are links for « Previous Item | Next Item ». Below the tabs, it says "Viewing page 130 of pages 129-140" and "Your search term occurs 10 times in this item. View Results". The main content area shows a page number "130" and the author "SUSAN CAMPION". Below this, there is a preview of the article text, which is split into two columns. The left column contains the text: "smith, writing about 16th-century decorated papers, states: 'Whether wallpapers and lining papers were made as separate products is impossible to say' (1976: 23). Catherine Lynn notes:". The right column contains the text: "blocked onto these rolls. The first machine for making continuous, unjoined paper in the United States, a cylinder machine, was shipped from England by Thomas".

JSTOR Accessibility Policies:

Excerpted verbatim from JSTOR's Help and Support page:

Official Accessibility Policy

“The website is accessible to users with disabilities, including keyboard-only users and those with visual and cognitive impairments. The website is responsive, meaning users can easily adjust font size and color/contrast settings on most devices. We have made every effort to ensure that our image-based PDF files are accessible and can be read with screen readers like JAWS. These files are tagged at a high level using an automated process. While this method is not exact, it dramatically increases the accessibility of the files as compared to an untagged version. We regularly use automated checks and conduct tests with users against Section 508 and WCAG standards to evaluate and measure the accessibility of the site.

Accessibility specific support:

“In the event that the PDF tagging described above is not sufficient for your use, we can perform manual tagging for you. We are also happy to re-format PDFs that are unreadable via screen reader.

Please contact JSTOR support if you require PDF tagging, need content in an alternative format, find an accessibility issue with the website or need general assistance. You can do this via phone, chat or email. Please include citations for any requested articles. The turnaround time for requests will vary but we generally respond in 3 days or less.

- Limit of 3 articles per request
- Turn-around time is 3 days per request

Compliance:

“JSTOR uses reasonable efforts to ensure that the JSTOR website adheres to the following standards and guidelines.

- Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act. This is measured by the Voluntary Product Accessibility Template (VPAT), which is a standardized form describing how a product meets each accessibility guideline of Section 508.
- W3C WAI WCAG 2.0 Level AA.”
